

New Silicon Valley Offshore Incubator

New Silicon Valley Offshore incubator was founded by Silicon Valley Global in the San Francisco Bay Area, a world-renowned high-tech hub. It is a global cutting-edge technology-oriented, cleantech, artificial intelligence, new medicine, modern health care, and education focused investment, incubation and communication platform which links U.S. and China in a timely and interactive way. The center not only provides modern, multifunctional office space and conference center, but also provides a variety of professional services, including human resources and IT support, basic legal consulting, financial services and investment opportunities. Through regular lecture series and professional networking events, the Incubator aims to create a dynamic environment for creativity, focus and collaboration where entrepreneurs, companies and organizations from both United States and China grow together.
